Centennial year is a big one across Canada and not the least of the signs of celebration will be specially designed flower beds. In Kelowna, city gardeners here are tending thousands of plants in preparation of spring planting and a colorful show.

B.C. Hydro Raises Rates

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Hydro and Power Authority today announced that initial residential electricity rates are increased a half-cent a kilowatt hour effective immediately.

A "reorganization" of commercial rates was also announced which would mean revisions for most individual accounts but no additional revenue, said a Hydro statement.

Hydro said the residential rate increase would affect only the first 300 kilowatt hours used per month and that it should not cost consumers more than $1.50 more a month.

"Very low-use customers will have no increase and 50 per cent of the customers will pay less than $1 more per month," a Hydro statement said.

Current rates on the first 300 kilowatt hours are two cents per kilowatt hour.

Dr. Gordon Shrum, co-chairman of Hydro, said the rate adjustments are necessary because of increasing costs of labor, materials, interest rates and losses on bus transit operations.

Dr. Shrum said Hydro directors thought "it is desirable to increase our cash flow to ensure that our expansion program keeps pace with the demands of our expanding economy and the prosperity that goes with it."

Largest expansion projects under way are power projects on the Peace and Columbia Rivers, which will cost more than $1,000,000,000.

He said losses on urban transit are expected to reach $3,000,000 this year. Hydro operates bus services in Victoria and Vancouver.

Explorers Choose Sled

LONDON (CP) — A train of sleds towed by a motorized toboggan will be used by an eight-man RAE team when it undertakes a three-month expedition to explore uncharted regions of Canada's Ellesmere Island, 900 miles inside the Arctic Circle.

Two Canadian experts, picked by the Canadian Defence Research Board, will accompany the British team as it makes a reconnaissance of the island's 9,000-foot - high Commonwealth Mountain and attempts may even be made to scale the ice cap peak.

Transfusion Case Adjourned

VANCOUVER (CP) — The case of a young Jehovah's Witness, who needs a major operation but refuses blood transfusions, has been adjourned to April 6.

The unique hearing began Wednesday before family court judge Earl Vance in a crowded courtroom.

Heavy Snow Hits Prairies

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Saskatchewan residents dug themselves out today after a vicious two-day storm dumped up to 13 inches of snow on the province.

Saskatoon weather officials reported 10.6 inches Thursday after a Wednesday total of more than two inches.

Fanned by winds gusting 40 to 45 miles an hour, the snowfall was the largest in the city since 1962 when 12 inches fell Feb. 3 and 4.

Visibility in many parts of the province was about half a mile.

Dozens of motorists were stranded as highways plugged throughout the province. Three teen-agers, including two daughters of George Leith, Liberal MLA for Elrose, were jammed in a phone booth on Saskatoon's outskirts for six hours Thursday after they stepped from a train and could not be reached.

FLAGGED TRAIN

The sisters and Michele Proby, a friend from British Columbia, finally flagged down another train at 11 p.m.

The Saskatoon city transit system cut service well before midnight Thursday and spent many hours attempting to return stranded units to the garage.

Air Canada said planes had no difficulty landing at Saskatoon Airport during the blizzard, marked by temperatures of about 15 above. Four massive snowblowers worked through the night on runways.

The eastbound CNR Panorama crept into Saskatoon nearly six hours late and the westbound Supercontinental was delayed more than two hours.

In Saskatoon, many large stores were closed but smaller ones remained open. Banks remained open but reported up to half their employees absent.

Work at the Potash Co. of America mine near Saskatoon was carried on by men working double shifts. Most other mines shut down.

Only one fatality was reported despite dozens of accidents.

William James Taylor, 19, of Winnipeg, was killed when his car collided with a semi-trailer truck near Maple Creek, about 80 miles southwest of Swift Current.

RCMP said it was snowing heavily at the time.

Michener 'Ready To Leave' Say Officials In New Delhi

NEW DELHI (AP) — Indian protocol officials said today they have been told unofficially that Canadian high commissioner Roland Michener may have to leave India "on short notice" to accept an appointment as Governor-General of Canada.

They said they were told of this "likelihood" at a diplomatic reception Thursday night. Michener was still in New Delhi today and a high commission spokesman said "we have no indication he will be leaving in the next three or four days."

But informed diplomatic sources said "there was a strong possibility" he would be named to succeed Governor-General Georges P. Vanier who died March 5.

Michener has been high commissioner to India since September, 1964.

In Ottawa, political observers said it seemed certain that Prime Minister Pearson will announce the name of Canada's new Governor-General next Tuesday in the Commons.

Most speculation there has been that the choice is Michener, a former Conservative MP and former Commons speaker.

However, Michener, 67, next April 19, told The Associated Press today that the rumors "are just speculation" and that he could not comment further on the matter.

He insisted he had not started packing any personal belongings yet and that as far as he knew he would be continuing as high commissioner here.

Some 100 guests were evacuated from the Mount Royal Hotel, and about 80 from the King Edward Hotel across the street.

First reports had indicated the fire was threatening adjacent buildings, but firemen poured water on all buildings within a half-block radius.

The fire destroyed the Mount Royal's three-story, 40-unit older frame wing. A fire wall kept it from spreading far into a newer brick portion.

No one was reported injured and no damage estimate was available.

Witnesses say the fire broke out about 9 p.m. in the kitchen and dining room area of the fashionable hotel.

Gordon Lock, manager of the King Edward, said heat from the fire broke windows in the hotel facing the Mount Royal and in other buildings nearby.

Police withheld the names of the victims.

The blaze broke out at 9:30 a.m. and firemen battled the flames for more than an hour.

U Thant Continues Quest For Peace

Secretary-General U Thant "will continue his efforts" for peace in Vietnam, a UN spokesman said Wednesday. The informant gave that reply at a briefing for correspondents when asked if Thant's three-stage peace formula, first made public in January, 1966, is "already ready." The informant replied that the secretary-general would continue his peace push in spite of recent failures.

Sir Henry Lightfoot, Boston, governor-general of Sierra Leone, whose powers have been taken away by a new military regime, is going into exile in Britain. Lt. Col. "Sir Henry is going to live in exile until he retires," Juxon-Smith said.

Birth of a "black political power third force" that could become a third party in the U.S. was announced Thursday by Adam Clayton Powell and other Negro leaders meeting on the British resort island of Bimini, Bahamas. The ousted Democratic congressman, who lives in self-imposed exile here, told a press conference a national campaign "to elect the black man" would be pushed. "We are getting together as a team very soon, cross-crossing the nation from Washington to Berkeley, Calif., stopping at strategic points."

Three men investigated in connection with an alleged Soviet ring that spied on NATO bases have admitted they passed on to Russians material collected by agents. But none of them, an Italian parachutist and two men in Cyprus, admitted doing any actual spying themselves. Reports of the spying followed the arrest of Giorgio Rinaldi and his wife here two weeks ago.

More Than 450 B.C. Nurses To Quit Unless They're Heard

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—More than 450 nurses employed in Lower Mainland provincial mental hospitals voted Thursday night to resign June 1 unless the government establishes an impartial arbitration board to consider their demand for a 25 per cent pay increase.

At two mass meetings here, the nurses voted to hand in their resignations April 28, effective June 1.

"This could be very serious indeed," said Dr. B. F. Bryson, superintendent of the 3,000-patient Riverview Hospital.

"I have to take a neutral stand, but I am certainly sympathetic to the nurses on staff who are not paid in relation to other types of work. They should be paid according to their experience and training."

Mrs. Faye Hartford of Surrey, secretary of the Psychiatric Nurses Association, said the starting salary for psychiatric nurses is $362 a month, rising to $432 in six years. The 456 nurses who voted to resign represent half the nursing staff in Lower Mainland mental institutions. A further 450, unable to attend two Thursday meetings, will be approached individually.

Nurses from Vernon and Kamloops will meet today in Kamloops. There are 1,150 nurses in seven government mental hospitals. They have rejected government offers of from five to seven per cent. The mass rallies Thursday took place after a delegation of nursing representatives flew back from Victoria to announce there were still no further developments in their bid for an arbitration board.

The meetings were told the government had been given until March 29 to give an answer on the arbitration board controversy.

Not only had there been no decision, said officials, but there had not even been an answer. "We are no longer going to be treated like children," said Dwight Wenham, executive secretary of the Psychiatric Nurses Association.

THINGS STILL MUCH THE SAME IN ROBIN HOOD'S NOTTINGHAM

DETROIT (AP) — Things haven't changed much in Nottingham, England, since the days of Robin Hood.

The sheriff still can't hit the bulls-eye and poaching is on the rise in Sherwood Forest. Elliott M. Durham, current sheriff of Nottingham, was in Detroit Thursday to help promote the ninth annual international indoor open archery tournament this weekend at Cobo Hall.

Durham decided, for benefit of reporters, to try the long bow on a target in a park near downtown Detroit.

Resident in his 14th-century blue robe, cocked hat and chain of office, the sheriff missed several shots before a couple of arrows struck the target 25 yards distant.

Asked whether the original sheriff of Nottingham might have done better, Durham replied: "Well, I should think he was a lot better shot than I am."

Robin Hood? "He was a resistance leader," said Durham. "He did a good job in his own way."

As for the crime rate in Nottingham today: "There's too much of it," said Durham. "Housebreaking is on the increase. So are crimes of violence. Poaching, too. If I want a pheasant now, I have to go to a pub and buy one from the poacher."

Two Major U.S. Strikes Set To Go Into Effect At Weekend

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP) — A nationwide U.S. railway strike is still set for 12:01 a.m. Saturday, the head of the Order of Railroad Conductors and Brakemen said today.

President Clyde F. Lane denied reports that the walkout of some 18,500 union members had not been called off.

The strike would tie up about 65 per cent of U.S. railways. Rail officials have threatened a court action to halt the walkout.

The ORCB called the strike on grounds the railways are cutting off employee and dependent insurance coverage as of WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has re-designated William McChesney Martin Jr. as chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, the White House announced Wednesday. The announcement ended speculation over whether Martin would continue as chairman. His views have differed with those of the president.

Railway Labor Act. Insurance and wage rules contracts are being negotiated.

A strike by the ORCB would hit most major U.S. rail lines.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Teamsters Union ordered Thursday a country-wide strike vote this weekend in deadlocked contract talks for some 500,000 workers in the U.S. trucking industry.

The action came after union negotiators spurned a reported three-year, 37-cent wage offer from industry negotiators representing some 12,000 trucking companies.

The union has come down in bargaining to what it calls a basic minimum demand totaling 56 cents an hour, including an 11-cent cost-of-living increase in the first year of a three-year contract. Five cents could be eliminated in future years as living costs decline sufficiently.

Union sources said the company's latest offer was rejected unanimously by the approximately 700 local union delegates meeting here.

Accuser Becomes Defendant In Alberta Allegation Case

By KORKY KOROLUK EDMONTON (CP)—A procedural argument Thursday delayed debate on a motion in the Alberta legislature that has already placed on the defensive the man who last month took on two members of the Social Credit government by himself.

The 15-minute argument ended when Speaker Art Dixon decided to wait until today before ruling on a point of order raised by Opposition Leader Mike Macagnano.

Premier E. C. Manning disagreed with the decision but said he would not challenge it.

The motion sponsored by Mr. Manning is aimed at Garth Turcott (NDP — Pincher Creek-Crowsnest), who last month questioned the propriety of some land dealings by the municipal affairs minister, A. J. Hooke, and said the former provincial treasurer, E. W. Hinman, may have used his cabinet post to further his own ends.

The motion is in two parts. The first "deplores the impropriety of (Mr. Turcott) in casting reflection on the character and reputation of other members without presenting specific charges supported by evidence."

The second directs him to file with the Speaker within 48 hours of passage, "any and all specific charges relative to the impropriety he has made, for which he is prepared to assume responsibility, together with evidence justifying such charges."

Mr. Macagnano said the first part calls Mr. Turcott's conduct into question and that he should be allowed to make a statement, then withdraw from the house during further discussion.

But, he said, before this is done, the second part of the motion should be debated. Then, if Mr. Turcott failed to produce specific charges within the required time, the house should proceed with the first part.

Mr. Turcott asked the house for time until at least Tuesday to prepare his "statement of defence."

Mr. Macagnano said the first part calls Mr. Turcott's conduct into question and that he should be allowed to make a statement, then withdraw from the house during further discussion.

But, he said, before this is done, the second part of the motion should be debated. Then, if Mr. Turcott failed to produce specific charges within the required time, the house should proceed with the first part.

Mr. Turcott asked the house for time until at least Tuesday to prepare his "statement of defence."

Major Sailing For Juniors Coming Here

Kelowna has been chosen as the site for the B.C. junior sailing eliminations, to take place July 1 weekend.

Of a total of 30 crews participating, the winning crew will travel to Montreal to compete for the world junior sailing championship.

The crews will be aged 18 years and under and in the world championship, the winning crew will be sailing a Flying Dutchman junior. The boats to be used for the B.C. junior championship are Sygnet, a new class of sail boat for Kelowna and these boats are being constructed in Kelowna by the junior sailing division of the Kelowna Yacht Club as part of its junior development program.

In addition to selecting the B.C. representative for the world junior championship, the nine age class championships will also be held at the same time. The winner of each age group will represent B.C. in the national centennial sailing championships which will be held at points across Canada.

There are two firsts involved: This is the first time there has been a world junior championship competition. This is also the first time Kelowna has had the chance to host a B.C. eliminations contest. The yacht club has announced Ross Boyer of Vancouver the co-ordinator for junior sailing in B.C., on behalf of the Canadian Yachting Association, should be credited for his work in enabling Kelowna to be awarded this 'plum' in the sailing world.

The event is just one of five major sailing events to be staged in Kelowna this season. The activities begin on the long weekend in May, with the Pacific International Yachting Association Blossom Time Regatta, May 20, 21 and 22. The B.C. Geary 18 Championships will be held during the same weekend.

The Western Canada Enterprise Championships are set for July 8 and 9 and the Kelowna Yacht Club Invitational Aug. 2.

'OF VITAL CONCERN'

Pollution Of Mill Creek Costs City Company $350

A Kelowna construction firm was fined $350 today for pollution of a Kelowna area creek.

Convicted under the Fisheries Act for polluting Mill Creek with a substance harmful to fish, company owner Russell Davis said he was not aware of the danger at the time.

The court was told the company was constructing a reservoir and upon completion was disinfecting with about 100 gallons of bleach in about 150,000 gallons of water.

The solution was drained into the creek and tests showed the amount of chlorine absorbed by the organic material of the creek was enough to be fatal to fish.

Conservation officer Don Stewart said he did not feel the maximum fine of $1,000 was required because of the circumstances "but I do feel the matter is serious."

Magistrate D. M. White, before imposing the fine, reminded the court that pollution was of vital concern to this area, which depends on its lakes and streams for the tourist industry.

Consuming alcohol in a public place March 19 cost E. P. McCarthy of Joe Rich Road $50. He was arrested in the offices of Okanagan Telephone.

A North Surrey youth was found guilty of driving without due care and attention and for being a minor without auto insurance in trial proceedings before Magistrate White.

He was fined $35 on the first charge and $5 on the second.

The magistrate said he was imposing only a $5 fine on the insurance charge because the driver was under the impression the vehicle was insured.

Barry Dahl was charged following a single car accident on Poplar Point Drive Feb. 24.

Many District Rotarians Heading For U.C. Conference

The annual conference of the 25 Rotary clubs grouped together in the Rotary district for the Kelowna area is to be held in Yakima, Wash., April 7, 8 and 9. It was announced today by Dr. C. B. Holmes, president of the Kelowna Rotary Club.

"At the meeting," he said, "we will discuss matters relating to this Rotary district, in addition to hearing speeches and making plans for increasing our service activities."

A delegation of 17 members of the Rotary club and their wives of this city is scheduled to attend the conference. The presiding officer will be William A. Luce of Yakima, who is the governor of this Rotary district, which comprises the area from Kamloops to Prosser, Wash.

Among principal speakers are Clarence Ernst, former executive secretary of the Yakima YMCA; Harry S. Hay of Saskatoon, who is currently on the youth committee of Rotary International; and Bill Witt, Rotary District, 1959-60 in Edinburgh, Scotland.

The program will also include entertainment and hospitality features, such as a special luncheon for Rotary Anns, as wives of Rotarians are referred to; the district governor's banquet; the concert choir from Central Washington State College at Ellensburg, Wash.

The conference will nominate Dr. Harold Henderson of Kelowna to serve as governor of this district for 1967-68. He will be elected, along with 278 other nominees of districts in all parts of the world, at Rotary International's 1967 convention in Nice, France.

Rotary governors supervise and co-ordinate the service work of more than 12,000 Rotary clubs with a total membership of 600,000 business and professional men in 134 countries.

Kelowna Secondary Student Wins United Nations Trip

Victoria Gibb, a student at the Kelowna Secondary School and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Gibb of 1291 Bernard Ave., will attend the United Nations in New York in July.

Miss Gibb was the winner of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows' UN Pilgrimage for Youth public speaking and essay competition judged in Vernon.

Students from throughout the Valley, including others from Kelowna secondary schools, gave 10-minute impromptu speeches in the contest.

They also submitted 500-word essays on a UN topic, and resumes of their experiences in church, community and school activities.

The winner was chosen on the basis of the highest aggregate score.

Miss Gibb will travel to New York with a bus load of other winners from B.C., Alaska, Alberta and Washington.

While there, they will be introduced to the various departments and embassies and will be lectured on the internal set up of the organization.

The pilgrimage is sponsored by IOOF and Rebekah lodges throughout Canada and the U.S. and is being held this year for the 18th time. More than 12,000 students have made the trip.

Local organizations wishing to hear the impressions of the student who makes the tour should contact secretary, Mrs. George Muford.

Interior Provincial Road Conditions Improving Daily

B.C.'s Interior highway conditions continue to improve daily.

Although winter tires or chains are still required on some mountain passes, most highways are bare and dry and others nearly so.

The Fraser Canyon section of the Trans-Canada Highway is bare and good, with some rolling hills. The Kootenai, St. Ann, Simoom, Revelstoke section of the Trans-Canada Highway is bare and dry, with some rolling hills near Three Valley Gap.

Although some patches of snow are still in the Rockies, the department of highways in Kelowna said early today the same higher sections.

Winter tires are still needed on the Allison Pass section of the Howe-Princeton highway, where the pavement is mostly bare and dry, with some rolling hills.

Highway 97, from Penticton to Sicamous, is bare and dry, with rolling rock 7 1/2 miles south of Sicamous.

Side roads in the Kelowna area are bare and the Beaver Lake road, near Penticton, is bare and dry. The weather man predicts light winds, with little change in temperature.

Forecast for tonight is a low of 27, rising to a high of 50 Saturday.

Friday temperatures dropped from a high of 49 to a low of 28, cold compared with the same day last year when a high of 63 and a low of 33 were recorded.

STUDS MUST GO BY TONIGHT

Okay, Dad, what do we do next? This seems to be the thought of Charles Robinson, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Robinson of 145 Flintoff Ave.

Actually the youngster is simply reminding Kelowna and district motorists that studded tires must be removed by midnight tonight. Under an amendment to the Motor Vehicle Act studded tires are legal on B.C. highways only between Oct. 1 and March 31.

INCOME TAX

Simplified Forms Causing Problems

The new "simplified" income tax returns are giving the revenue department a pain in the computer.

Taxpayer mistakes are running far higher than last year, because of a new section in the forms recording payments to the Canada Pension Plan.

Nevertheless, returns are going into the national data centre just as fast as a year ago. The last available count, March 23, showed 3,156,384 of the expected 7,000,000 forms had been received.

The data centre's computer will handle 240,000 returns per three-day cycle when it hits full tilt, with the approaching April 30 deadline.

An error analysis is complete for 690,000 of the T1 short forms filed by most employees, and mistakes have turned up in 133,000 of these. The error analysis of one in five is up 20 per cent from last year.

Roy Steel of the Okanagan regional taxation department in Penticton said taxpayers are either failing to deduct pension plan payments from income or are deducting the wrong amount.

A second section on CPP contributions must be incorporated in the form because they are tax-deductible and the department has no other way of knowing what they total.

Because the pension plan was recently established, this year is the first time people have had to worry about it on the income tax forms, "and it is causing quite a bit of confusion," said Mr. Steele.

The pension plan is also a burden to employers, who must make another calculation to complete the T4 slips stating employee income. Many T4s were distributed just in time to beat the Feb. 28 legal deadline.

Mr. Steele said mistakes common to the Okanagan area include those found on the returns of union members who are claiming union fee deductions but are not showing the name of their union.

He said also that the personal exemption portion of the form is also causing difficulty, although mistakes on this portion "have decreased this year."

"Most of the trouble," he added, "is that people are not reading or carefully following their directions."

Mistakes are many also on the T1 general forms filed by employers, professional people, farmers, fishermen and people with large investment incomes.

They made 12,000 mistakes in the first 34,000 returns to O.T.A. This rate of one in three is 50 per cent higher than last year.

Idea Worth $252 Award

Tony Roth has won $252 because he felt sorry for the man who mixes glue at the S. M. Simpson division of Crown Zellerbach in Kelowna.

Mr. Roth won the award under a company suggestion plan. A hot press operator at the plant, Mr. Roth became $252 richer for suggesting an idea which has reduced overtime costs to a minimum in the glue-mixing operation.

He suggested the storage capacity for mixed glue be increased so one man could mix enough glue in an eight-hour shift to supply the press department for 24 hours.

Previously the plant's glue storage tanks did not hold a 24-hour supply and the mixer often had to work overtime.

"I felt sorry for John Green, the glue mixer, who was often called in early," said Mr. Roth.

Six other people have shared $398 since the suggestion plan was introduced at the plywood plant last December: Mr. Green, Caroline Krebs, Nelson Revell, Roy Richard and Vern Sauer.

Mr. Lucas, head of the college music department and a guest soloist at the Philharmonic Chorus Music in Color presentation, will sing several solos during the program.

The choir, on the final leg of a tour which has taken it as far west as Victoria and Seattle, will perform in the Free Methodist Church, 1580 Bernard Ave., at 7:30 p.m.

Sunny . . .

Only a few cloudy periods are expected to disrupt sunny weather in the Okanagan Saturday.

The weather man predicts light winds, with little change in temperature.

Forecast for tonight is a low of 27, rising to a high of 50 Saturday.

Friday temperatures dropped from a high of 49 to a low of 28, cold compared with the same day last year when a high of 63 and a low of 33 were recorded.

Police Seeking Young Vandals

Rocks and crayons, the weapons of young vandals, were used in Kelowna again overnight, and police continue their investigations into city vandalism.

At least four street lights were broken late Thursday or early today, three in the 600 block Patterson and one at the corner of Wardlaw and Richter; and property of a downtown hotel was defaced with marking pencils.

Six other people have shared $398 since the suggestion plan was introduced at the plywood plant last December: Mr. Green, Caroline Krebs, Nelson Revell, Roy Richard and Vern Sauer.

Police are seeking the vandals.

APPLE WOOD BURNS

The Kelowna volunteer fire brigade was called out Thursday to extinguish a grass fire at 895 Kennedy St. Firemen said the fire, in piles of dead apple wood was kept under control and there was no damage.

Chamber Week Time For Plans

The second largest, and possibly the most active in the province, the Kelowna Chamber of Commerce is urging the support of the whole city as it swings into its busiest season.

Launching the season is national Chamber of Commerce Week, April 2 to 8, which the Kelowna organization will tie in with its annual membership drive.

President K. F. Harding said banners urging chamber support will be posted in stores during the week and members will make a special effort to recruit new members.

However, with a record membership total of about 525 including more than 465 firms, the Kelowna chamber is already the second largest in B.C.

A pamphlet boasts with some degree of modesty it is second— "quite a bit after Vancouver."

The remaining membership is comprised of individuals who are retired businessmen or are connected in their jobs to public service, as in government or education posts.

SUBILEE YEAR

Now in its jubilee year, the Kelowna chamber will celebrate its 61st birthday June 13 as plans are formulated for projects during the year ahead.

Mr. Harding, who this year succeeded W. R. Bennett, as chamber president, said "many of our future projects will be guided by the theme: economic progress through community action."

In this direction, plans are already underway for an ambitious economical opportunity survey; an idea initiated this year by the Canadian Chambers of Commerce.

Such a survey would determine "what our educational and business needs will be in the future, and would be invaluable in probably all aspects of civic affairs."

COMPLEMENT STUDY

"Information of this type would complement an urban renewal study," he added.

In his personal reflections on the chamber, the president said "we have been effective because of the top flight executive and the activity of committee members."

He listed as examples of this effectiveness the local chamber's initiative in successfully urging B.C. Chambers of Commerce action in government matters.

Shown in a recent pamphlet is a comprehensive review of the Kelowna chamber's affairs during 1966.

The activities involved in agriculture include assistance with 4-H Club work and origination of a agriculture policy for the B.C. chamber.

In education, the chamber became vitally concerned with establishment of an Okanagan Regional College and was largely responsible for the exceptional turnout for the December vote on the referendum.

CIVIC PROBLEMS

Other things considered and being worked on by the chamber include civic problems, such as parking and store hours, support of required public buildings, such as the proposed airport terminal and the hospital complex.

Much of the work has been directed toward making the public aware of problems and situations through publicity and tours and the invitations to expert speakers at chamber meetings.

The chamber has also continued to work toward Valley-wide participation in matters which would benefit the Okanagan as a whole and has had representation in most Valley-wide organizations.

Vitally concerned with tourism in its visitor and convention efforts, figures show 17,123 registrations at the chamber office and booth during 1966; an increase of more than 6,000 from the previous year.

The total estimated 1966 revenues, combining visitor spending and conventions, was $9,512,340.

ACTIVE GROUP

"We've been active as is obvious," said Mr. Harding, "and we would like to highlight this activity for the benefit of the public during Chamber of Commerce Week."

Meanwhile, Prime Minister Pearson congratulated chambers across the nation on the occasion of the special week.

In a message, he said: "I commend these voluntary organizations for the effective work being done at the local, provincial and national level to build stronger Canadian communities and for their leadership in meeting the challenges of our times."

There are boards of trade and chambers in more than 850 Canadian communities including Peachland where an organization was recently established.

Chamber of Commerce Week there will come during the inaugural year of the group and is expected to herald the start of a rapidly expanding municipality.

In Westbank, president Edward Hill of the chamber said his group will also tie in a concerted membership drive with the special week.

He described the Westbank chamber as a steadily growing body boasting 88 members; 30 more than at the same time last year.

"Our main efforts have been toward the development of facilities such as would attract tourism," he said, "we are particularly interested in development of recreation facilities."

Clerking, Fishing, Freezing Night Class Course Subjects

Evening courses resume Monday and 10 new courses will be offered during April, three of which start Monday.

These are store clerk training, which is a five-session course, instructed by Gordon Bromley, for people already working in stores who have had little formal training and for those who are seeking permanent or summer employment in stores; dictaphone training, a four-session course instructed by Tremayne Farr, for people who are already competent typists; and water scheduling, for most economical and effective use of irrigation water, for one evening only, instructed by Craig Brownlee of the department of agriculture.

Fishing in the Okanagan—where, when, how is a one-night lecture to be given April 12 by George Stringer, the fisheries biologist.

Outdoor Art will commence April 18 and will run for 10 sessions, with Mrs. Marion Grigsby as the instructor, and a service station attendant's course will be offered on the same day by Peter Ratel. It will run for six sessions and will be of interest to those seeking permanent or summer employment in this field.

Other April courses are chemical thinning on April 19; freeze with ease at Winfield on April 20; and waitress training on April 25. For further information concerning the courses, please contact the adult education office.

Kelowna Officials To Coast For Foster Parents' Parley

Mrs. Laura Dull, representative of the Kelowna and District Foster Parent Association and Dave Small, social worker with the Kelowna office of the department of social welfare will attend a planning committee in Vancouver from March 31 to April 4.

This committee is composed of foster parents, social workers and senior officials of the department of social welfare's division as well as foster parents and social workers from the Children's Aid Society of Vancouver, the Catholic Children's Aid and the Family and Children's Agency of Victoria.

They will meet to complete plans and program for the second annual foster parents conference to be held in Victoria April 13, 14 and 15. This conference will be a prelude to the Child Welfare League of America conference, which will be held in Victoria April 17, 18, 19 and 20, where representatives from Western Canadian provinces will meet with delegates in Victoria.

from the Western States, Hawaii and Alaska to discuss better methods of child care.

The foster parent conference will provide the opportunity for foster parent delegates to attend workshops with leading child psychiatrists as well as meetings with the superintendent of child welfare and his senior officials. It is hoped such meetings will provide for greater understanding and more co-ordination and help as it pertains to the provision of homes and care for British Columbia's children in care.

Kelowna was represented by two foster parents and a social worker consultant at the inaugural foster parent conference held in Vancouver last June. Mrs. Dull and Mr. Small are representing the Okanagan Mainline region at the planning committee meeting and the Kelowna and District Foster Parent Association have elected Mrs. Vern Friesen and Mrs. Dull as their delegates to the conference in Victoria.

Police More Effective On Foot Or In Car?

Kelowna retailers have every right to be concerned over the number of break-ins in the city so far this year. However it is doubtful if the cure-all they suggest—the use of more police officers on foot—is the complete answer to the problem.

Their suggestion is an old and familiar cry not peculiar to this or any other city: "Get them off their seats and on the streets." The inference being that a man on foot patrol is more useful than a man in a car.

In the congested areas of a big city, the argument perhaps has some merit. Where there is a heavy population, particularly a transient population, men on foot probably are closer to any particular crime situation than a man in a car, and their mere presence is often sufficient to nip any such situation in the bud.

But in a place such as Kelowna, could one or two men on foot effectively patrol the city from South Pando to the industrial park?

Walkie-talkie communication with the police office plus the foot patrol being augmented by motorized patrols—this may have some merit. But it must be remembered that if policemen can spot lawbreakers, lawbreakers can spot policemen. An officer would look more about 90 per cent of the time on foot, he should spot trouble, a couple of blocks away and rush panting to the scene only to watch helplessly as the miscreants drive away. Then the cry would be: "Why was he on foot?"

The RCMP in Kelowna feel they have broken about 90 per cent of the recent burglary cases. Most of those responsible have been juveniles, so their trials were held without publicity.

But a quick check of the items stolen recently—rifles, heavy tools, auto parts—demonstrates that these crimes were not committed without a car or truck being used. What good, then, is a policeman on foot in an age when even juvenile crime is highly mechanized?

There are 5,271 acres within the boundaries of the city of Kelowna. To patrol such an area at night with an admittedly undermanned police detachment is difficult, even with radio-equipped cars.

To attempt to do so on foot would only give the lawless element an even better break.

White's Are Rolling

Wednesday was a day of some significance to Kelowna. The first White Truck produced in the plant here rolled off the production line. The ceremony was quiet and simple. There was no champagne; there were no speeches; the truck was simply turned over to its purchaser, the D. Chapman Company. Present at the ceremony were company officials from Vancouver and San Francisco.

Many people in Kelowna never expected to see "the day"; they doubted that the project would come to fruition and even when the building was started they doubted it would be completed. Certainly many more never expected to see the plant in production in March.

It was August 1 last year that the sod was first turned. Building commenced on August 15th, but was delayed by the railway strike affecting steel delivery and it was hampered by interunion labor squabbles.

It was indeed no mean achievement to build the plant and have the first truck off the line in a matter of eight months.

The company is planning an official opening early in May and one day will be devoted to an inspection by the public. We suggest that Kelownians should take advantage of the opportunity to see the plant. Those who will certainly be amazed at its size; the view from the highway gives no indication whatsoever of the floor space used.

The White organization is now a very definite part of Kelowna. Indeed, most of their employees are Kelowna people. Seven key people have been brought in but the rest of the employees are Okanagan people who have been trained to their position. They will produce the trucks which will be sold not only in Western Canada, but in the Western United States as well. This is a fact not generally appreciated here; Kelowna produced trucks will operate in many of the western states.

Kelowna people are happy about White's; indeed, they are more—they are proud.

TEENAGE COMMENT

WASP

The wasp is a busy little creature. He helps pollinate the flowers and various grains. He is a most useful and helpful insect. But the WASP I am going to talk about is the Women Against Soaring Prices. You may have heard in the past few weeks that WASP has been boycotting Okanagan apples because the prices have been too high. Maybe I am only a student and I don't know all the facts, but what I do know is sufficient. I don't think that this organization realizes that as our wages rise, our standard of living as well as prices will also rise. Presently, our standard of living is reasonably high. This explains why our prices are high. In order to make money, the merchant will raise his prices.

It is not the farmer's fault, as WASP claims, because he has nothing to do with the selling of his apples. All the farmer wants is his share of the money for his crops. WASP is doing its best to help reduce prices. But, I think it is doing more harm than good. Those people who are trying to make livings on farms or orchards, are finding it harder to do. If numerous organizations such as WASP spring up all over the country trying to do good, the farmer will find it more difficult to make money with his crops. If WASP could only realize this, she wouldn't have to try so hard to put the sting into things!

Soviet Plans To Stay Alert As China's Revolt Cools Off

By JOHN BEST

MOSCOW (CP)—Soviet authorities appear skeptical that the recent cooling of China's cultural revolution offers much chance of warming up relations between the two countries.

From all indications they are determined to continue their policy of vigilance in the face of what they consider the anti-Soviet bias of Mao Tse-tung's explosive movement.

Soviet commentators on the dispersal of the Red Guards, reopening of Chinese schools and suspension of demonstrations in front of the Russian Embassy in Peking carry "let's not let down our guard" overtones.

Symptoms of this attitude was a withering attack on Mao and his followers made by the Communist party general secretary, Leonid Brezhnev, just before the recent Soviet elections.

Denouncing the "tactical manoeuvre" of Peking, Brezhnev said:

"It stands to reason that the (party) central committee and the Soviet government cannot bypass the provocations and threats of the present Chinese leadership."

"They did and will continue to do everything necessary to protect the legitimate state interests of our country."

MOSCOW MAIN TARGET

Brezhnev charged that excesses inspired by Mao's group were "aimed directly against our party, our people and our Soviet state."

A typical Soviet news commentary on the turns of the Chinese cultural revolution declared: "The foreign policy line proceeding from the re-pudding of peaceful coexistence, from the... fostering of conflicts and from the attempts to split the international anti-imperialist front has not changed by a jot."

The so-called "anti-imperialist front" is, in Soviet propaganda terms, led by international communism.

For many months after the anti-Soviet slant of China's cultural revolution became clear, Kremlin leaders carried on a swiftly escalating campaign to rally the Russian people behind a tougher line toward Peking.

There were numerous public meetings to condemn "anti-Soviet provocations." The Kremlin talked about a "new and dangerous phase" in Mao's hostile line toward Moscow. From many quarters there were reports—never confirmed—of new Soviet troop deployments along the border with China.

POLICY UNCHANGED

Everything the Soviet authorities have said since the fever temperature of the revolution began subsiding in Peking indicates that they intend to keep to this policy of recalcitrance and preparedness.

A concrete sign that nothing has changed in relations between the two countries was the expulsion of two Soviet diplomats from Peking and the reciprocal expulsion of two Chinese diplomats from Moscow.

The episode yielded glimpses of some of the byplay involved in the quarrel between the two Communist giants. These came in the Soviet foreign ministry note to the Chinese embassy here declaring the two Chinese persona non grata on grounds they had abused their status as diplomats.

The note accused the embassy of circulating propaganda literature here, such as the magazine Peking Review, despite warnings from Soviet authorities; of showing anti-Soviet films for foreign students, and of staging receptions, meetings and press conferences to spread anti-Soviet views.

CHARGE RUDENESS

It also complained that Chinese diplomats evaded summons to the Soviet foreign ministry to discuss matters affecting relations between the two countries. This, it said, was "without precedent" in interstate dealings.

In recent months, the Chinese had not once shown up at the appointed time. Their only excuses were vague references to being "occupied with lunch," or "after-lunch rest," or simply having gone for a stroll.

"During official meetings in Soviet offices, Chinese diplomatic personnel conduct themselves tactlessly, provocatively, and try to express infamous slander against the Soviet state... so that continuing these meetings becomes impossible," the note charged.

Fifteen Pounds? Throw It Back

EDMONTON (CP)—When a fisherman hooks a 15-pound lake trout in Great Bear Lake, he is expected to throw it back and let it grow a little. Les Harvey, who operates a lodge on the lake for 10 weeks every year, says 15-pounders are run-of-the-mill on the rim of the Arctic Circle, where the largest lake taken last summer weighed 52 pounds.

Harvey, an off-season resident of Dubuque, Iowa, who has operated his lodge for six years, says his customers have been landing trophy-sized trout regularly in the lake, which has never been fished commercially. And he wants to keep it that way. "Too many trout are being killed accidentally," he explains, because anglers don't know how to get them off the hook without harming them.

So next season Harvey plans to give a little course in hook removal to his clients before they take to the lake. And when they pull out, they'll take along barbed hooks, so that undersized fish can be flipped loose without damage.

SET MINIMUM WEIGHT

As an other conservation measure, Harvey plans to ask each incoming guest to set a minimum weight for the fish he hauls in and agree to release anything smaller.

"Too often an angler is so enthusiastic about catching a 15-pounder at first that he kills it, then later catches and kills a 25-pounder and another weighing 30 pounds."

The near-freezing cold of the Northwest Territories, where food is scarce, a trout's growth rate is fantastically slow. Biologists estimate that a lake trout takes 12 years to grow to one pound and is incapable of reproduction until 14 years of age.

But Harvey is enthusiastic about the prospects of the Canadian North as a hunting and fishing paradise.

Of the half-dozen lodges on Great Bear Lake, he estimates that two of them which are Edmonton-based net less than $250,000 a year for their 16-week season.

GROWING YOUNGER

SWANAGE, England (CP)—Britain's oldest trade union may not be as old as its members thought. The constitution of the Ancient Society of Purbeck Marblers and Stonemasons is dated 1741 but Hans Hancock, a 78-year-old member, says it was written in 1651. The union is trying to find the document's real age.

Personally Speaking

By VEN. D. S. CATCHPOLE, B.A., D.D.

FOR SALE
No! This is not an advertisement. I am afraid the editor would not let me get away with using my column for that purpose. I am thinking, instead, about people selling themselves.

Let me hasten to say that I am not thinking of what has been called the oldest profession in the world, although in Soho in London, I did have the chance to see the ladies of easy virtue standing at the doors of their places of business. How I got into that somewhat select area of London is another story, but I must assure you that it was all quite innocent!

I wonder if I am alone in feeling something like shame for men like Earl Cameron when he did—and Ward Cornell when he does—advertise tooth paste. Then there is the other chap who rushes off to a South Sea Island to do stuff for torture-test watches.

I feel sad when Bobby Hull does the works for some kind of men's hair dressing or extols the virtues of some kind of car. I don't watch all television programs and so I can't list every case, but they are doubtless legion in number. I cannot help feeling that these people are going in for a special kind of prostitution, which certainly is not immoral but which is degrading.

This brings up the whole matter of dignity. I grant you that Fred Davis carries off his little bit very well indeed and yet even with him I feel unhappy that he should have to do this sort of thing. However, dignity does not provide one with a living and the tell me that these personalities who trade their fame for a mess of pottage are very well paid for their appearances.

But they are selling themselves just the same and I do not feel happy about it. The question, however, does arise: Is dignity important? I think so. The late governor-general knew how to maintain his dignity but he also knew how to play with children and to make himself quite at home with scouts and in Boys Town. When Princess Margaret was here in 1958 she was careful to sign only one book, refusing to sign a service form for me, the reason being, I believe, that she would not sell her signature or allow it to be available for sale.

In England we went to a ducal palace. In the rear were all kinds of armaments which one might find at a mid-way, and throughout the tour I felt the cheapness of the whole business. The man was selling his dignity, in a sense, and while I helped to make this a profitable business I could not like it.

I suppose it is something that many people do not understand but I am very fond of my privacy. I do not like anyone to take advantage of it or trespass upon it. This, some would call snobbery and yet I have never been a snob. I like all kinds of people. I don't care whether they have money or not, but I do have times which are not for sale; nor will I compromise my station in the community by putting on a paper hat, let us say, and selling peanuts (for no matter how good a cause) on the streets.

It is my view that a mayor or an alderman, while he holds such an office, represents the civic government and should maintain a certain dignity just as he must watch his business and private lives, for if he is found wanting or wanting, he is compromising, not only himself but the city also. A clergyman who acts the glib-god for reasons of popularity or of the cheap kind embarrasses the church which he represents. Some people have thought that this column embarrasses the church of which I am an officer, and they may be right. From comments made, however, I think that most people realize that I am trying to do my job through the medium of journalism, if such it can be called.

In my own field, again, I am concerned about a movement to introduce jazz and the like into services of worship. This concern is natural to one of my age and experience. I simply do not believe that the presence of Go-Go Girls (Whatever they are) helps people spiritually, nor am I convinced that the church should pander to the temporary wants of a generation which, tomorrow, will be off on some other fantastic gambit. For that matter, I am equally critical of the theatre when those who produce something or other consider it necessary to do or say degrading things which they think appeal to the masses of the people from which the audience is drawn.

There used to be a dignity about the theatre as there is about the church and it sad to see the theatre selling itself down the river for the sake of a cheap popularity; and that goes for the church also.

I am well aware that much merchandise today is cheaply made and is not intended to wear well. It may be flashy but it soon falls apart. In that case the craftsman is selling his art for cash without any pride in it and that is the way Big Business wants it.

It is more profitable that way. But people who do this sort of thing, in whatever business or profession, are really hanging in their display windows their very souls and characters and the sign hanging on them is: FOR SALE.

Puerto Rico Votes July 23

By ARCH MACKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP)—Puerto Rico, a Caribbean island in the sun noted for rum, tourism and poverty, votes July 23 on its political future.

The options for the 2,668,000 Puerto Ricans: becoming an independent republic or the 51st U.S. state, or retaining a special half-and-half status as a U.S. commonwealth which may offer the best of both worlds. The last choice seems heavily favored.

The plebiscite will be the first opportunity Puerto Rico has had to indicate its desired political status since it was ceded to the U.S. in 1898 after the Spanish-American war.

By comparison, Newfoundland faced a simpler choice in 1919 when it chose to become the 10th Canadian province rather than remain Britain's oldest colony.

Puerto Ricans now are U.S. citizens. Several hundred thousand, in fact, live in the U.S., primarily in New York City. Its exports find ready access to the U.S. and it draws federal U.S. financial assistance.

But Puerto Rico pays no federal taxes. It has self-government, cannot vote for a U.S. president and has a non-voting representative in the U.S. Congress. Puerto Ricans are subject to the U.S. military draft.

COULD BE POORER

Further, while the labor force of more than 700,000 is afflicted by a jobless rate of perhaps 12 per cent, by Latin American standards Puerto Ricans are comparatively wealthy, and increasingly so.

CANADA'S STORY

British Surveyor Studied Prairies

By BOB BOWMAN

In a recent story about Regina becoming the capital of the Northwest Territories in 1883 it was mentioned that the prairie had to overcome bad publicity created by the Palliser survey.

It was on March 31, 1857, that the British government ordered Captain John Palliser to survey what is now western Canada, and make recommendations about settlement and railway. The British were then having grave doubts about the ability of the Hudson's Bay Company to govern the territory. It seemed likely that the U.S.A. would acquire it unless stronger action were taken. Leading statesmen including former Prime Minister Russell, Lord Stanley and William Ewart Gladstone were members of a special committee studying the situation.

Palliser had a number of good men with him, including Scottish geologist Dr. James Hector. They covered the prairies, always in danger of being attacked by the Indians, and even explored Elkhead House and Yellowhead Passes in the Rockies. Elkhead House got its name because Dr. Hector was killed by his horse there, and seemed to be dead. Just as he was being buried by an Indian guide, his eyelids flickered!

Palliser eventually advised against building a railway from Canada to Red River, but he thought it might be possible to clear a wagon road through the Rockies. His report on the prairies included a large triangle of land said to be unfit for settlement. It ruled out southern Alberta and Saskatchewan. Canada sent out a party in 1857 and Dr. A. Y. Lind, of the University of Toronto, accepted the Palliser "triangle" but reported that there were more than 11 million acres of first-class land for farming.

Pretty Easter Wedding Held In St. Paul's United Church

St. Paul's United Church was decorated with daffodils and lily-of-the-valley on Saturday, March 25, at 7 p.m. when Barbara Gail, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gordon Currie of Lakeview Heights, became the bride of Dennis Reynold Roberge, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Roberge of Victoria.

Rev. F. H. Gough officiated at the pretty double-ring ceremony and Mrs. Jean Gibson was organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the lovely bride wore a full-length gown of white tulle with a scooped neckline and elbow length bell-shaped lace sleeves. Her flowing lace train fell gracefully from her shoulders complementing her sleeves, and two white organza roses with crystal drops held in place her white elbow length layered veil of illusion net in place. She carried a bouquet of white Easter lilies.

The matron of honor was the bride's younger sister Dianne, Mrs. Peter Clarke, who was charming in an Empire line dress of soft moss green peau de soie. Her headpiece was a single rose in matching color and she carried a sheaf of yellow daffodils and snapdragons.

Acting as best man was Larry Crossley of Victoria, and ushering the guests to their pews were Dennis Loken of Kelowna and Kenneth Pringle of Victoria.

At the reception in Tintin's Yeoman Room which followed the ceremony, the mother of the bride received wearing an ensemble of tapestry brocade in pink and green tones, complemented with pink and beige accessories and a corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother, who assisted her in receiving the guests, chose a dress of grey and gold accented with a smart yellow hat and a corsage of yellow roses.

Covering the bride's table was a white lace crocheted table cloth made by the bride's great aunt, Mrs. F. Taylor of Penticton, and the three tiered wedding cake, decorated with yellow tipped roses, a centerpiece of white bells and an orchid, was flanked on either side by lilac candles and yellow daffodils.

The toast to the bride was

Everyone Has Stake In Battling Cancer

I have been married for 21 years and I have been wanting a mink coat for a long time. I live in San Francisco and the weather can get pretty chilly here. Please tell the Cleveland woman that I will gladly send her a fan if she will send me the mink. — BAY AREA SHIVERS

I, too, have a fear of cancer, but my story is different. Please print this letter because there are thousands more like me, and we need the moral support and understanding of the public.

Three years ago I was operated on for a malignancy. The doctor praised me for coming in at the first sign of trouble. He said I was very wise and very lucky. He assured my husband that the operation was a complete success and said we shouldn't worry. He told me that if I got through five years without a recurrence I could consider myself cured.

I have two years to go and my mind is never at rest. Every day I look for cancer symptoms on my own — hoping and praying I don't find any. At night I go to bed with everything, "Dear God, please let everything be O.K."

My children are still in school. My husband is not in the best of health. They need me. Every day is precious now. My burden, and the burden of those who share my problem is heavy. The thought that some people are afraid to be near me is demoralizing and depressing. Medical science has made tremendous strides in the fight against cancer but there is still so much ignorance — like that of the woman from West Virginia. Your column has educated millions of readers on subjects people don't want to talk about. Will you please print this letter and ask for compassion and understanding for those of us who are fighting a very difficult battle? — A LADY FROM OHIO

Dear Lady: Here is your letter and I am asking for more than compassion and understanding. I am asking for money.

Cancer research is costly. Education and services must be paid for. Each and every one of us has a personal stake in the battle against cancer. Fortunate (and rare) is the family that has not been touched by this dread killer. About 50 million Americans now living will eventually have cancer. This is one out of every four persons in the United States.

I urge everyone who reads this column to respond to the appeal of the American Cancer Society. And be generous, please. Your contribution means the difference between life and death. — ANN LANDERS

Canadian Envoy Takes Seat As Security Council Chief

By ALEXANDER FARRELL

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Canadian Ambassador George Ignatieff takes over the presidency of the UN Security Council at midnight Friday for a one-month term. He is only the third Canadian to occupy this chair in the council's 21 years.

The late Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton had three terms as council president when he was Canada's UN ambassador—in February, 1948, and January and December of 1949.

Charles Ritchie, recently named high commissioner to Britain, was council president in May, 1958, and June, 1959.

Ignatieff, 54, son of Russian aristocrats and a career diplomat fluent in English, French and Russian, takes over during an unusual lull in Security Council activity. The council, which is supposed to carry out the main UN task of keeping international peace and order, hasn't met since Dec. 16, when it ordered UN member countries to stop trade in certain commodities with Rhodesia.

UNLIKELY TO LAST

The odds are against such a lull lasting much longer and later Toronto Ambassador Ignatieff is a graduate of requested, Ignatieff will be the man who, for the month of April, has to organize it, fix the agenda and approve the agenda.

A meeting of the 15-country council can be requested by any country or by UN Secretary-General U Thant, or called at the discretion of the council president.

The council has five permanent members: the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, France and Nationalist China. Ten other countries are elected for two-year terms, five each year. Canada began its third term Jan. 1.

The presidency is rotated among all member countries, from month to month, in English alphabetical order. Canada will thus provide the president again in July, 1968.

A diplomat since 1940, Ignatieff became Canada's UN ambassador last July after serving as ambassador to the council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Paris.

He was born in St. Petersburg, now Leningrad, in 1913. His father was Count Paul Mestchersky, Russian education minister under the last of the czars Nicholas II. He replaced his title with the family name Ignatieff after leaving Russia in 1919.

After several years in England, the family moved to Montreal and later Toronto. Ambassador Ignatieff is a graduate of the University of Toronto and Oxford universities. His early diplomatic career included service as political adviser to Gen. McNaughton during Canada's first Security Council term in 1948-49.

OIL SLICK TRAGEDY

Shoals of Fish Foam at Mouth

By HAROLD MORRISON

LONDON (CP)—Shoals of fish are foaming at the mouth, thousands of seabirds are dying, valuable oysters are being emulsified—and British tempers are rising.

Why didn't the government set fire to the tanker Torrey Canyon sooner?

Scores of letter-writers are asking this question in angry accusations against a government which likely will face a fresh bombardment when Parliament reassembles from its Easter holiday next week.

Those principally involved, owners of the Cornwall beaches are attempting to inject a note of optimism by maintaining the oil-stained shores will soon be cleansed.

But one newspaper estimated the tourist loss in Cornwall this year will total about $30,000,000. And there is no assurance that the oil will disappear even when the tourist season is over.

A resident of Devon, which adjoins Cornwall, recalled that a tanker was torpedoed in 1940 near the Bristol Channel, spewing crude oil over a beach.

As late as the autumn of 1945 the rocks were still stained and climbers returned home with their clothes like a garage mechanic's overalls. . . . Every winter for the last 17 years I have found dead razorbills, gull-lemots and gannets, pathetically fouled by oil, being washed up on this beach."

Government spokesmen maintain they could not immediately set fire to the Torrey Canyon because it was on the high seas.

There was no assurance that even if it had acted without the owners' consent, the flames may not have endangered other vessels in the area or spread even to some shores.

But former Tory ministers, supported by seafaring veterans, said the time to act was within the first 24 hours of the disaster 13 days ago.

Political commentators Ian Trethowan, writing in The Times, summed up on view by saying the Torrey Canyon affair is likely to increase skepticism about the style of Harold Wilson's premiership.

He had summoned his ministers to take command in the battle of the beaches and "yet after all the Wilsonian bustle, there was the oil still seeping inexorably on to the Cornish coast."

Athletic Award Program Incentive For Children

By RICHARD VIVONE

Spring is the season when the young person's fancy usually turns away from the responsibilities of the school room. So, when the young ones sneak off to school at 7:45 a.m. when they normally should be crawling drowsily out of the sack, an attractive lure has grasped their attention. The drawing card at the Glenmore Elementary School is a relatively new program of physical fitness. Before the Centennial Athletic Awards Program, most schools simply used the ancient compulsory system whereby a student or pupil took the normal gym class, went through the motions and went home.

OLD SYSTEM BORING

There was no incentive and few rewards for those not strictly athletically inclined. The youngsters in the majority viewed this as drudgery.

The prime objective of the program is to stimulate, encourage and motivate Canadian youth to strive for excellence and reach higher levels in physical fitness.

When the program was first presented to the Glenmore teachers, they were a little apprehensive about it.

PROGRAM INSPIRING

Am. Corrado, the geography teacher who doubles as a physical education coordinator tells why. "When we first looked at the program, we were not very optimistic. The standards looked a little high for young people."

But Mr. Corrado and his associates sat down and worked the problem out, tried it on the children with magnificent results.

"It's turned into a terrific program," says Mr. Corrado. "It has inspired the children."

That has to be an understatement. The Canada Fitness Council predicted about 30 per cent of the participants would achieve a medal standing. At Glenmore Elementary, almost 70 per cent have done so.

The program works this way:

There are three compulsory events and one optional. The children must take the standing broad jump, one-minute speed sit-ups and the 300-yard run. The optional event is chosen by the pupil from one of cross country run, skating or swimming.

Standards are set by the council for each age bracket from six to 18. The pupil's performance is weighed against that of the chart and if he exceeds the requirements, he will be granted either a gold, silver or bronze medal according to the excellence of his performance.

Overall standing in the program will be judged in one of four groups. A four-gold-medal performance will put the pupil in the gold medal class. But should a pupil receive one silver and three gold, he will then be given a silver medal for overall performance. Of all the medals received, the standing of the lowest one will be the standing of the overall performance.

TRAINING METHODS

For example, if a child earns three gold medals and a single bronze, the overall rating is bronze.

The gold medal is excellent, the silver outstanding, the bronze merit and the red shield for participation.

Once presented with the information, the Glenmore staff went to work examining the various ways the program could be presented to the children. They found the following to be the most suitable:

In sit-ups, to increase speed, the pupil would do the exercise for 20 seconds and rest for a minute and repeat four times in a gym period.

In time, the sit-ups would be increased to 30 seconds with the same rest period, then 40 according to the pupil's progress.

For endurance, the pupil did 60 sit-ups setting his own speed. The program duration would be four weeks.

The standing broad jump combined style with speed, strength and co-ordination.

The running aspect of the program combined endurance with speed. Mr. Corrado started the pupils running for three minute intervals setting their own speed limitations. For speed, he used quick dashes starting at 50 feet and working up to 100 feet.

In the sit-ups, the top male pupil did 61 in 60 seconds while a girl did 54 in the same time.

In the standing broad jump, a 13-year-old boy leaped seven feet, five inches. The minimum requirement for a boy of that age is five feet, 10 inches for a bronze medal. A 12-year-old girl jumped six feet, four inches. The lowest requirement for a medal in that age group is five feet, one inch.

Apparently the children are enthusiastic about the program and the teachers are happy because of this.

How do the parents feel? They love it but for one thing. How would you like it if your child came home one day, did 60 sit-ups on the living room floor, got up and asked: "How many can you do, dad?"

Curling Club Will Renovate

Plans for the Canadian Curling Championship to be staged in Kelowna in March, 1968 are under way.

At the annual meeting of the Kelowna Curling Club Wednesday, the Kelowna Brier Committee, under chairman Harold Long, requested that the curling club excavate sheets three, four, five and six of the rink. New pipes will be installed and ready for the fall opening.

The club granted the request and will undergo $11,000 in renovations before the 1967-68 season opens. The building will be painted and new lighting fixtures installed.

The curling club also held its annual election of officers. George Cmolik was elected president, Harold Long vice-president and Stan Burch second vice-president.

R. B. McCaugherty is vice-chairman in charge of operations and K. F. Harding is the vice-president in charge of administration.

Officials expect 500 Dominion Curling Association officials for the championship plus 1,000 spectators and 100 press, radio and television personnel.

The Right Reverend E. W. Scott, Bishop of Kootenay, has been appointed padre for the Dominion Curling Association for the 1967-68 season.

NHL Season Ends Sunday Second Place Undecided

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Somebody else's troubles could play a role in determining which team will take second place in the National Hockey League when the season ends Sunday.

Montreal Canadiens are second now with a one-point margin over third-place New York Rangers, who are one point ahead of the fourth-place Toronto Maple Leafs. Each of the three has two games remaining.

This situation was unchanged by Thursday night's only game. Chicago Black Hawks, who sewed up the league title long ago, downed the last-place Boston Bruins 3-1 to increase their points total to 92.

Chicago marksmen were Phil Esposito, Dennis Hull and Eric Nesterenko. Tommy Williams scored Boston's only goal.

The Hawks, with flashy left winger Bobby Hull resting an injured knee, play the Canadiens in Montreal Saturday night and visit the Rangers Sunday afternoon.

HOWE INJURED
Detroit Red Wings announced Thursday that Gordie Howe may miss the team's final game of the season because of a slightly sprained wrist. The Wings play host to the Canadiens Sunday night.

In other weekend games, the Rangers are at Toronto Saturday and the Leafs visit Boston Sunday.

Both Hull and Howe have been playing outstanding offensive hockey this season, and their inability to play could give some comfort to their team's opponents.

Hull has picked up 80 points and is second in the individual scoring competition. His 52 goals represent slightly more than one-fifth of Chicago's total offensive output.

Howe, a thin-haired veteran in his 21st NHL season who celebrates his 39th birthday today, is fourth in the scoring race with 64 points, including 25 goals.

Although they could not rely upon Hull in Thursday night's game at Boston, Chicago re-

EDMONTON (CP)—Two cowboys who work and travel together won top money in first rounds of bronc riding events Thursday at the Canadian Western Stock Show Rodeo.

Ted Vayro of Taber, Alta. scored 75 points to sweep first money of $335 in the bareback riding. Kenny McLean of Okanogan, B.C. had his 79 up to win $250 first money in the saddle bronc event.

Vayro winters at McLean's ranch in the Okanagan, and they travel together to most of the summer rodeos in Western Canada.

Bentley Is Best
FAIRVIEW, Alta. (CP)—Bentley, Alta., defeated Prince George and Falher, Alta., Thursday to win the first Alberta centennial pee-wee hockey tournament.

In the final round-robin series, Bentley downed Prince George 7-3. Falher stopped Prince George 2-1, and Bentley swamped Falher 7-1.

Falher made it to the finals by defeating Fort St. John, 2-2 in earlier play. The Fort St. John team defeated the Kelowna All-Stars for the B.C. Interior championship last weekend. Prince George had blanked Jaoover, Alta. 2-0, and Bentley held back Calgary-Glenbrook 6-4. Fairview and Rycroft, Alta., played to a 2-all tie, as did Wainwright, Alta., and Edmonton Eastwood.

Ryan Wecker, who scored 19 goals in five games for Bentley, was named outstanding player and outstanding defenceman of the tournament. Greg Norbraten of Prince George was outstanding forward, and Gary Fortier of Peace River received the goalie award.

Patterson, Liston Triumph Want Another Shot At Clay
PITTSBURGH (AP)—Floyd Patterson, former heavyweight champion, tuned up for a possible fight with heavyweight king Cassius Clay by knocking out Bill McMurray Thursday night in 2:37 of the first round of a scheduled 10-round bout.

Patterson didn't even give his little-known opponent time to get started before lowering the boom.

Patterson stung McMurray with a long left that dropped the Sacramento, Calif., fighter to his knees, then finished him off moments later with a left right combination.

Patterson weighed 197, McMurray 209½.
"I'm ready to meet Clay," Patterson said after the bout. "Any date is agreeable to me. I've been waiting a long time for this."

The Associated Press learned in the evening that Patterson may get his long-awaited chance for another shot at Clay before the champ is inducted into the U.S. Army late next month.

In Chicago, Clay's manager, Herbert Muhammed, said an offer had been made to Patterson for an April 25 title match, with Detroit the possible site.

GOTEBORG, Sweden (AP)—Sonny Liston, former heavyweight champion, knocked out Dave Bailey of Philadelphia in 2:22 of the first round of a 10-round bout Thursday night.

Sawchuk, 37, wants to live with his family in Union Lake, Mich., near Detroit, and says if a deal can be arranged he would like to play for the Red Wings, the team he broke in with in 1949.

He said in an interview Thursday:

The two points gave Esposito a personal total of 59 points. He is eighth among the league's scorers.

The Hawks spotted the Bruins a 1-0 first-period lead, tied the score in the second and counted two goals in the last half of the third period.

Williams slipped Bobby Orr's rebound past Chicago goaltender Denis DeJordy at 19:11 of the first period for his eighth goal of the season.

The lead held until 16:53 of the second period, when Esposito tallied on a 10-foot scoring shot after picking up a loose puck in Bruins' territory.

Dennis Hull banged his own rebound past Boston netminder Bernie Parent at 12:33 of the final period and Eric Nesterenko scored with 10 seconds remaining in the game after the Bruins removed Parent to send out a sixth attacker.

The Hawks outshot the Bruins 38-28. The victory was their 11th in 14 games with the Bruins this season.

WANT TOP COACHES

Soviets Ready For Pro-Calibre Game

By DAVE MCINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—Russia is ready for hockey's big time. A Soviet embassy spokesman said Thursday Russia wants to join an international, transatlantic professional league and the sooner the better.

The suggestion is for an interlocking schedule, during which National Hockey League teams would each visit European once a season and European teams—say from Russia, Czechoslovakia and Sweden, for a start—would make a circuit of NHL clubs.

The Russians would like to obtain some NHL-calibre coaches for a couple of years to instruct their own coaches.

A Russian who was present in the Soviet team's dressing room after each of its recent

Canadian games put it this way:

"One of our players complained that he had been checked across the face. He said he caught on immediately how to do this himself and was all prepared for the Canadian player the next time they met on the ice."

"But what happens? The Canadian gives him a butt end of the stick in the stomach just as the Russian player is getting ready to check the Canadian in the face."

"Our player says: Get me a coach so I know all these tricks and we can play them."

The NHL hasn't been keen about playing the Russians except during the off-season and at a guaranteed price.

The Russians reply that NHL clubs in regular-season play in Europe would pull in better crowds and make more money than in NHL cities in Canada and the U.S.

Canadians acquainted with the Russians are loathe to give up their amateur status and thus miss a chance at the Olympic and world championships.

The Russians concede this point but say that they soon should be able to provide teams to participate in a professional league and have enough left over to compete in amateur ranks—just as Canada does.

SNUBBED BY NHL

The Soviet spokesman said the Russians have attempted to open informal negotiations with the NHL a couple of times but

Habs Hurt All Season No 70-Game Performer

By AL McNEIL

MONTREAL (CP)—When final statistics for the 1966-67 National Hockey League season are compiled early in April they won't show a single member of Montreal Canadiens with a perfect score in the games-played column.

In contrast to last season when four regulars, excluding goalies, went the 70-game route to the NHL championship and Stanley Cup, this season's team has been able to ice a full squad only once—for one period of a Nov. 12 game against New York Rangers.

An injury pattern that developed in training camp and suspensions have kept Canadiens in a constant state of lineup confusion.

Ironically, the only two regulars who could have played every game were the ones suspended by President Clarence Campbell—John Ferguson for two games and Bobby Rousseau for three—as a result of tussles with game officials.

"There have been quite a few injuries all through the league throughout the season, so you can't blame them entirely for our poor showing," says coach Toe Blake.

Nevertheless, it is the worst streak of injuries he has seen since he took over as coach in 1955.

RECOVERY SLOW
"In other years when we had a lot of stars, injuries didn't affect us as much, but this year when the players did return they still couldn't give top performance."

"Another thing is that while we've had replacements for the injured players they haven't shaped up as well as in other years."

Forum physiotherapist Yvon Belanger says this is the busiest his department has been in at least seven years.

"The worst part is the time it has taken the players to get back to top playing form. After a long layoff it has taken some of them four more weeks to get back to their best shape."

Last season forwards Rousseau, Gilles Tremblay, Claude Provost and defenceman Jim Roberts all played the full 70 games. Tremblay missed eight of the first 62 this season with a shoulder separation and cut ear. Provost was out for four with a back injury and later a sprained wrist, and Roberts sat out a January game when he couldn't get his skate on over a broken toe.

Defenceman Terry Harper, who appeared in all but one game last season, recently returned after a shoulder separation that kept him out for 14.

Centre Jean Beliveau, in other years the offensive sparkplug, was out for 17 with a fractured thumb suffered in training camp and a serious eye injury inflicted by a stick Dec. 17.

DUFF HURT KNEE

Leftwinger Dick Duff, who played 63 games last season, missed nine with a training camp knee injury that has never fully healed.

Centre Henri Richard was out for five games in mid-February with a knee injury, and another centre, Ralph Backstrom, missed two in November with a pulled groin muscle.

Wingers Yvan Cournoyer and Claude Larose each missed one game with leg injuries and defenceman Jean-Guy Talbot's knee gave out for one game.

Among defencemen, Ted Harris missed five in February with a broken thumb, J.C. Tremblay missed 10 with a head injury and later a muscle spasm in his back, and Jacques Laperriere ran his string of appearances to 56 before a shoulder separation sidelined him March 1.

were rebuffed.
He said this was partly understandable because the NHL has been engaged in its own expansion plans.
But he also maintained that the Europeans feel—and he mentioned specifically the Czechs and Swedes—that the NHL would attract far more attention in the U.S. at least if it would accept an international, interlocking schedule.

International games could be broadcast on television by satellite.

Fishermen Tighten Belts For Seven Years of Famine

By JOHN MACLENNAN

MOUSEHOLE, England (Reuters)—The 30 fishermen of this tiny village in southwestern England are tightening their belts for a lean period they say could last seven years.

They are among the many coastal victims of a giant blanket of foul-smelling crude oil polluting grounds along 150 miles of southwestern coast.

The oil leaked from the shattered hull of the super tanker Torrey Canyon after it ran aground on nearby Seven Stones Reef 13 days ago.

Drifting up to 10 inches deep in patches, the sludge is choking off the mackerel, mullet, pilchard, sole and plaice of the English Channel.

Fishermen reported Wednesday large shoals of dead fish floating belly-up in the oil. A fleet of vessels has been spraying thousands of gallons of strong detergent over the oil in an attempt to break it up and hold it in suspension until it can be taken out by the tides.

FEAR CHEMICAL MORE
The fishermen fear the chemical more than the oil.

"Fishing is all we understand," said one regular customer at Mousehole's Ship Tavern, built in 1702 by his fisherman ancestors.

"We know of a bad slick near here which stripped a fishing ground for nearly seven years," he said. "Now the fish are slowly coming back—but this stuff they're spraying is killing off the fish grub and you can't just put that back.

"There is going to be no fish here for a long time."

Ever since piracy and smuggling were outlawed, most of Mousehole's 1,500 inhabitants have depended upon fishing for a living.

Except for the odd tourists, nearly everyone in the Ship was directly concerned with the industry.

FISH MARKET SHUT
Their main outlet to the lucrative London market, the nearby Newlyn fish market, is shut down because of the pollution.

One buyer said it will remain shut "until we are satisfied that fish caught near here are not contaminated by oil or detergent."

Boatloads of fish brought in by fishermen before they learned of the closing of the market were taken back to sea and dumped.

Lobster fishermen also are affected. One said the detergent was changing the color of the lobsters' shells.

"Nobody will buy them," he said.

ANGRY WITH GOVERNMENT
The patrons of the Ship were angry over the oil menace, being treated as a national emergency by the government.

Waves of planes saturated the battered hulk of the Torrey Canyon with rockets, napalm and bombs in attempts to burn off the vessel's remaining cargo.

Thousands of soldiers were mobilized to assist local authorities on the beaches and an armada of navy and private craft were attempting to stop the oil at sea.

But the Mouseholers said they felt it was all unnecessary. "Why didn't they pump the ship out?" one demanded. "The sea was calm and we had enough time."

Pearson Reiterates Unification 'Right'

CALGARY (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson reiterated Thursday the government believes armed forces unification is the right policy, will go ahead with it "and, I haven't begun to weaken."

He said comment by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker in the press, to the effect that "I am climbing down," is based on misinterpretation of his remarks Tuesday about timing of unification procedure.

The prime minister told a press conference "it's obvious unification will take some time after the bill is passed "but this doesn't mean, as was interpreted in some quarters, that I have begun to weaken."

Speculation the prime minister might delay implementation of the unification bill arose after he told reporters in Ottawa he wished statements of Air Chief Marshal Frank Miller could have been reported in depth.

He said he meant only that he had "read with great interest" the air chief marshal's plea that implementation of unification be delayed until problems are worked out of the plan.

"I was interested in the strong feeling that there should be great consideration given to the timing of the changes. That is obvious. Mr. Hellyer (the defence minister) has said that."

GOING AHEAD
"It doesn't mean that we are not going to proceed (with the bill) next week because we are."

He added: "In other words, within 48 hours of the passage of the bill it doesn't mean every member of the armed forces will appear in a green jumper." He said the air chief marshal's plea to the Commons defence committee last week contained "interesting points against unification and on the question of timing of implementation."

Wheat Exports Up 25 Per Cent Analysis Of Trading Reveals

OTTAWA (CP)—Wheat exports were 26 per cent higher in 1966 than in 1965 and the U.S.-Canada auto agreement pushed sales of cars, trucks and parts up 158 per cent, an analysis of trade figures revealed today.

Wheat replaced newspaper as the country's biggest money-maker, spurred by major Russian and Chinese purchases.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported wheat exports worth $1,061,024,000, compared with $840,175,000 in 1965.

Newspaper sales abroad increased 11 per cent to $968,224,000 from $869,586,000 in 1965.

Sales of passenger cars and chassis, trucks, and parts except engines totalled $855,739,000, up from $331,617,000 and almost entirely an indication of the auto pact, under which imports were also higher.

U.S. STILL BIG BUYERS
The DBS report confirmed earlier over-all export figures for the year, showing an 18.5-per-cent growth to $10,070,766,000 from $8,525,078,000 a year earlier. The figures do not include re-exports-imported goods sold abroad after processing in Canada.

Close to 60 per cent of all exports were purchased by U.S. buyers. These sales totalled $6,027,722,000, up 24 per cent from 1965, when sales in the U.S. made up 56 per cent of total exports.

Little change from 1965 showed in other main export categories.

Sales of pulp increased five per cent to $520,068,000 and softwood lumber exports were four per cent lower at $439,569,000.

Crude petroleum exports were up 14 per cent to $321,000,000, aluminum up three per cent to $372,275,000 and iron ores and concentrates up two per cent to $369,009,000.

Press Muzzled In Nicaragua

MONTEGO BAY, Jamaica (AP)—A prominent Nicaraguan editor told the Inter-American Press Association today that freedom of the press does not exist in his country.

Pedro Joaquin Chamorro long has been critical of the Somoza family, which dominates Nicaraguan politics. During the recent political campaign, which resulted in the election of Anastasio Somoza as president, Chamorro was jailed on charges of subversion and terrorism. He was released early this month.

The IAPA press freedom committee is meeting here prior to a board of directors' meeting which begins Friday. The organization has about 700 newspaper members in North and Latin America.

Chamorro gave the IAPA a detailed report of his imprisonment. He denied government claims that he used his paper, La Prensa, as a front for political subversion. He accused Somoza and his political allies of using terrorism on a broad scale to influence the elections.

Chamorro also denounced the new Nicaraguan press law, which he said permits arbitrary closure of newspapers. La Prensa was closed for 11 days at the time of the elections, as were five radio stations.

Publication was resumed after a general amnesty, which also brought Chamorro's freedom, but Chamorro said the law remains a grave threat to the country's press.

JFK CASE Witness 'In Canada'

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—Gordon Novel, the missing witness in District Attorney Jim Garrison's investigation of the 1963 Kennedy assassination, is in Montreal, the New Orleans States-Item says.

The newspaper, quoting "a responsible source," says preparations are under way to seek his return.

A lawyer for Novel said he would ask the Louisiana Supreme Court to dismiss a warrant for his client's arrest as a material witness in the case.

Garrison seeks Novel's arrest as a material witness in his investigation. Novel, 29, sold his French Quarter tavern and left town last week just before a second subpoena was issued for him to appear before the Orleans parish grand jury.

Novel has repeatedly called Garrison's investigation "a monstrous fraud."

The grand jury has indicted Clay L. Shaw, 54, prominent retired New Orleans business executive, for conspiring to murder President John F. Kennedy. The indictment said David W. Ferrie, Lee Harvey Oswald and "unnamed others" were co-conspirators.

Ferrie died Feb. 22 last while under investigation by Garrison's office. Oswald, named by the Warren commission as the assassin, was slain two days after the Nov. 22, 1963, murder of Kennedy in Dallas, Tex.

Layton P. Mariens, 24, one-time roommate of Ferrie, spent 90 minutes Wednesday before the grand jury.

Mariens read this statement to reporters as he waited to go before the grand jury:

"I am here in response to a subpoena. I am co-operating now as I have in the past. In my presence, my attorney was advised by the district attorney's office that I am not suspected of any criminal activity whatever. As far as we have been informed, the district attorney is interested only in my knowledge of certain individuals in this case. On the advice of my attorney, however, at the present time I will make no public statement about the matter under investigation."

HERMAN FOLLOWS SUIT

Herman the Hippo, a 1500-pound hippopotamus who disappeared from his cage last Saturday, follows an elephant friend from the huge mud puddle near Laguna Beach, Calif., where he was located. The scene is 15 miles from where Herman was last seen. Trainers had the elephant enter the water near Herman, and when he left, Herman left.

Eric Winkler To Step Down

OTTAWA (CP) — Eric Winkler, Conservative whip in the Commons for the last four years, plans to leave federal politics for the provincial field. The 47-year-old MP for Grey-Bruce, whose Commons seat disappears under redistribution at the next federal election, said Thursday he has handed in his resignation as party whip but expects to remain in the House for the present.

He has been approached about contesting the provincial Grey South riding in the next Ontario election, expected this year. The seat has been held for the last 41 years for the Liberals by Farquhar Oliver. Mr. Oliver is retiring and the Liberals picked a new candidate Wednesday night.

Mr. Winkler said the length of his stay in the Commons depends on whether he is nominated and when an Ontario election is announced by Premier Robarts.

"I didn't intend making federal politics a lifetime career anyway."

There are a couple of ridings down there that have been neglected in provincial representation. This may be the appropriate time to make a change.

HEADS RETAIL BUSINESS

First elected to the Commons in 1957, Mr. Winkler has been chief Opposition whip since April, 1963. He is a former mayor of Hanover, Ont., where he has a retail men's wear business.

Mr. Winkler said that it is up to Opposition Leader Diefenbaker to announce his resignation and name a successor. The deputy whip is Reynold Rapp, MP for Humboldt - Melfort-Tisdale.

Mr. Winkler said he regrets leaving federal politics but he doesn't think his aspirations require him to stay much longer. He said his relations with Mr. Diefenbaker have been good and there never have been any differences "that put my position or personal relationships in jeopardy."

Talk On Gibraltar Sought By London

LONDON (AP) — Britain invited Spain Thursday to resume talks on Gibraltar's future. The foreign office announced that Spain had been invited to take part in high-level discussions on the British-held fortress colony on or about April 18. Spain claims Gibraltar, which was seized by the British in 1704.

CHANGE WINS THROUGH
OSLO (AP) — Soeren Jaabaek told the Norwegian Parliament 98 years ago he could rig up an electric voting system for 1,500 kroner ($215). His proposal was rejected as too expensive but the Storting now is having an electric voting machine installed at a cost of 350,000 kroner—more than $50,000.

Two More TV Newscasters Desert Ranks Of Strikers

NEW YORK (AP) — Two more well-known NBC newscasters, Ray Scherer and Morgan Beatty, have joined Chet Huntley and Frank McGee in going on the air despite a strike by the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists.

But in Washington, state Secretary Dean Rusk will not appear on NBC's international Meet the Press program Sunday if the strike by the 18,000-member union is still on against the major U.S. TV and radio networks.

Negotiators for the networks and the union have been summoned to Washington Saturday for mediation talk in an effort to settle the walkout, now in its third day. The union struck NBC, CBS, ABC and the Mutual Broadcasting System Wednesday.

The strike is over wages and commercial fees. It was called in behalf of about 100 local on-the-air news personnel at network-owned stations in New York, Chicago and Los Angeles. Their salaries exceed $11,000 a year. Most network personnel, some of whose salaries range upward to the $100,000 level, supported the strike as members of AFTRA even though network newscasters had reached an agreement last January.

Scherer did a radio broadcast at 10 a.m. Thursday and said he was resuming his coverage on the White House. Beatty appeared on his NBC radio program News of the World, at 7:30 p.m. EST.

Some strikers removed an autographed picture of Huntley from the wall of a midtown Manhattan restaurant frequented by NBC employees, draped it in black crepe paper and placed it in the window. Huntley and McGee had refused to join the strike because they said they did not consider the union their bargaining agent.

Programs continued with a minimum of disruption Thursday. Reruns of comedies replaced soap operas. Most of the game and panel shows are taped and were not affected. When their backlog runs out, repeat shows will be presented.

Live entertainment programs, such as the Ed Sullivan show on Sunday night, will not be presented unless the strike is settled. Repeats have been scheduled.

He Makes History Every Day

DEQUINCY, La. (AP) — Marvin Wayne (Bud) Bryant makes medical history every day he lives.

In his 21 years of life, he has received more than 700 pints of blood. He needs a transfusion once a week to live.

Bud suffers from Cooley's anemia — a disease in which the red blood cell production is severely curtailed. Its victims rarely reach puberty. Bud had a brother and a sister die of the disease at the age of four months.

He also has one brother and three sisters who are free of the disease.

The disease was discovered when Bud was only seven months old.

"Since that time my doctor has provided me with every hospital and medical need," Bud said.

Bud works at the doctor's hospital so the physician can easily keep an eye on him. He works in the laboratory and assists in office routine.

"I owe my life to the doctor," Bud said.

Bud receives blood from prisoners at the Louisiana Correctional and Industrial School, a penal institution near Dequincy.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly blood disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Go-Go Girl
'Indecent'

MONTREAL (CP)—A municipal court judge Wednesday found a topless gogo dancer guilty of staging an indecent spectacle during a performance at a downtown nightclub March 12.

Susan Wright, 26, was fined $232.95 and Olivier Lamoureux, entertainment manager of the nightclub, was fined $307.25 after he pleaded guilty to a charge of allowing the performance of an indecent spectacle.

In declaring Miss Wright guilty, Judge Gerard Tourangeon said:

"As far as I am concerned, a dancer wearing only pasties on her breasts and a G-string might as well be prancing around the stage stark naked."

SAID 'SUGGESTIVE'

The dancer was convicted on the testimony of two Montreal morality squad policemen who said her dancing was "suggestive" and included "indecent postures and actions."

TARZAN DEFENDS
REPUTATION

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Tarzan's reputation is the issue in a $250,000 damage suit.

The suit has been filed in Superior Court asks also that actor Mike Henry be barred from "burlesquing and ridiculing" Tarzan in a new television series.

Screen Gems, Inc., from which the damages are sought, is producer of the series, called Tagyar, King of the Jungle.

The suit was filed on behalf of Edgar Rice Burroughs, Inc., Banner Productions, Inc., and A. G. Allin. Since 1965, Henry has starred in three Tarzan films for the latter two companies.

Young And Old U.K. Gamblers
Can Enjoy Crockford's Now

LONDON (AP)—One night in 1828, William Crockford, the son of a fishmonger, shot the dice and walked away with about $500,000.

With his tidy windfall, Crockford built a sedate gambling club, and British society flocked to his door like debutantes in pursuit of the earl's son and heir.

Today, Crockford's is still Crockford's—but its latest proprietor is Aziz Fancy, a 45-year-old Pakistani, who broke into business helping his father sell firewood on Africa's east coast. He is remodelling both Crockford's and its image. One of his ideas is daring at the least.

"I want the club to retain all its traditional charm and character," he says, "but the improvements I have in mind will be made the way I've always tried to live my life—slowly and carefully."

Beginning this month, Crockford's will open a junior Crockford's, downstairs from the upstairs where the big rooms and the big gamblers are.

Young Londoners—from 18 to 30 years old, and the same age group with foreign passports—will be able to play chemin de fer and roulette.

LIMITS BETS

Chemin de fer bets by the juniors will be limited to half-crown (about 50 cents) chips, and shilling (15-cent) chips at the roulette tables.

No junior member may cash a cheque of more than £10 ($30).

A limit on the bettor is something new.

In the old days when Crockford played host to the Duke of Wellington, Disraeli, half of the House of Lords and most of the House of Commons, Crockford himself put up a nightly bank of $25,000. Play could continue until it was gone.

But he never put a limit on how much a guest could lose.

It was at Crockford's that the sandwich was born.

Because he did not want to lose valuable gambling time to go and get a meal, the Earl of Sandwich said to a waiter:

"Go get me a piece of beef and put it between two slices of bread."

From then on such an arrangement of edibles became known as a sandwich.

KILLED HOUSE

The club flourished until the government's special committee on gaming houses empowered the police to enter any gambling house, on the complaint of any two householders, and take down the names of those present.

That killed Crockford's and Crockford.

On May 24, 1844—only four days after Crockford's shut its fashionable doors—William Crockford died, leaving a fortune in excess of $5,000,000.

In 1928, 100 years after the initial Crockford craps game, Crockford's was resurrected as a bridge club.

In 1934, the bridge club moved to more auspicious quarters at 16 Carlton House Terrace, the former home of Lord Cowdray, then as his descendant now is, one of England's richest men.

When the new betting and gaming law was passed in 1960, Timothy Holland bought the club and spent more than $250,000 refurbishing it. It brought back the fabulous gambling of the 1820s. Craps was ruled out and chemin de fer became the most popular game with roulette, baccarat, black jack and poker added to the sporting menu that continued to include bridge.

Then last year Aziz Fancy bought Crockford's.

Talent Rush Full Ahead

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The great talent rush is on. In something akin to the opening of the Oklahoma territory, at least a dozen musical-variety shows have already begun a race for performers in the 1967-68 television season.

Two of the principal competitors are Nick Vanoff and William Harbach, who will be producing ABC's Hollywood Palace for the fifth year.

"I figured it up that there will be over 400 variety hours on the major networks next season," said Harbach.

"So we've got to start lining up our talent early this time," added his partner.

Vanoff and Harbach are gearing for new competition and a new time slot; after four successful years in the Saturday night spot, Hollywood Palace is moving to Tuesday night at 10. The producers profess to be pleased.

WAS TOUGH FIGHT

"We managed to double the ABC rating in the time period," said Vanoff, "but it was always a struggle."

"We had to face Gunsmoke and NBC's movie—and Saturday night is the traditional night for Americans to see movies."

"Also, we geared the show to an older audience, since we inherited the people who watched Lawrence Welk," added Harbach.

The Tuesday night spot will give the boys a chance to aim the show at the swingers as well as the rocking chair jockeys.

The Palace producers have already lined up three hosts for multiple appearances: Bing Crosby, Jimmy Durante and Milton Berle. None of these is youthful. But Vanoff and Harbach feel "there is nothing so assuring as to have a real pro at the helm," and they plan to surround the veterans with young talent.

Landmark Destroyed In Blaze At Juneau

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — Fire destroyed one of Juneau's oldest landmarks and top tourist attractions Wednesday. A little theatre, bunkhouse and an old boiler house, starting points of a gold mine tour for visitors, were described as a total loss. Two items were saved, however—a pair of 60-year-old fire extinguishers.

MOVIE highlights

Ancient and modern themes mingle at the Paramount Theatre, Kelowna next week for a bill of fare that will set audiences tingling with excitement.

Monday and Tuesday the epic Marco the Magnificent is screened, plus the One Spy Too Many. There's one complete show starting at 7:30 p.m.

The Wednesday to Saturday Tony Curtis stars in Not With My Wife You Don't! with two shows at 7 and 9:05 p.m. The children's Matinee Saturday is Boy and the Laughing Dog.

At the Kelowna Drive-In Saturday, Monday and Tuesday, James Stewart stars in the Rare Breed, and for the next three evenings, Cornel Wilde runs for his life in Naked Prey. This movie is restricted. Saturday is the first night for the spy-thriller The Ipcress File, which continues into the following week.

Marco, The Magnificent, is headed by one of the most brilliant casts ever gathered together for a single motion picture which depicts the exploits of the handsome and courageous young Venetian, Marco Polo, on his journey from Venice to China in the 13th century.

Among the big stars who recreate the various characterizations are two-time Academy Award-winner Anthony Quinn, in the role of Kublai Khan, Emperor of China; Omar Sharif, the triumphant star of Doctor Zhivago, portraying a dashing desert sheik; Europe's beautiful Elsa Martinelli as the fiery Girl with the Whip; Horst Buchholz of Our Man from Istanbul, seen as Marco Polo; Orson

Wells as Marco's tutor; Akin Tamiroff as the cruel and mysterious masked man of the mountains; French star Robert Hossein as Kublai Khan's war-mongering son; and Gregoire Aslan as Achmed. In addition, the spectacular scenes called for thousands of extras.

Filmed in Eastmancolor on an epic scale on location in Egypt, Yugoslavia and Afghanistan, with additional scenes photographed in the Orient, Marco the Magnificent offers a series of spellbinding adventures, with spectacular battles counterbalancing the story's intimate romance interludes.

Not With My Wife You Don't! signals from the pop art, op art animation introductions, that is a laugh-filled comedy.

In one form or another, Not With My Wife was in some stage of production for more than two years. Tony Curtis, Virna Lisi and George C. Scott are the stars and together enact the story of two friendly but competitive Air Force officers and their activities with an Italian beauty who is loved by both.

As Tom Ferris, a general's aide who values his wife and his career about equally, Tony Curtis makes his third recent starring appearance for Warner Bros.

Virna Lisi, the Italian blonde, came from European films a few years back to star with Jack Lemmon in How To Succeed in Love and Stay Single. As Tom Ferris' wife, she is cast as a tough and ruthless air commander who hunts the enemy in the air and women on the ground.

George C. Scott, two-time Academy Award nominee for searing screen portrayals, assays his first romantic comedy role. He is cast as a tough and ruthless air commander who hunts the enemy in the air and women on the ground.

One Spy Too Many stars Robert Vaughn, as Napoleon Solo, and his sidekick David McCallum, as Illya Kuryakin. Strange torture scenes are among the highlights of this movie which seems Rip Torn as the mad maniac who attempts to break all of the Ten Commandments. Torn's plot is to dominate the world, but in order to do so he must learn the secret of the BG-30 gas, known as the "Will Gas".

The gas has been developed by the U.S. Army Biological Warfare Division as a new combat weapon. It is up to the intrepid U.N.C.L.E. agents, Vaughn and McCallum, to defeat this plot.

In the course of doing so, the action takes them to Greece, where they encounter formidable adventures in the massive tomb of the old Grecian god, Spyros, come close to losing their lives at the hands of a mad scientist, and find themselves involved with Dorothy Provine, cast as Torn's estranged wife who he also intends to make one of his murder victims.

Deadly pursuits, gunplay, harrowing escapes and double-cross lead up to the story's tense climax, which takes place aboard an airplane which circumstances thrust into a steep dive. But this account will not rob the spectator of the suspenseful outcome of One Spy Too Many.

Naked Prey, that is, Cornel Wilde, runs hot foot across Africa pursued by sundry Africans after his safari is demolished by a tribe which resented intrusion into its territorial boundaries. After capture, Cornel is merited as being a worthy foe and allowed to go free, provided he can elude his pursuers, and survive in the savage heart of the Dark Continent.

The Rare Breed sees Maureen O'Hara cope with the tough west and Jimmy Stewart.

Maureen plays a recently widowed English cattlewoman who has brought the first Hereford cattle to America.

She must defy unprincipled cattlemen as she insists on accompanying her imported bull on a trail deep into the heart of Texas, to its destination at a cattle spread (long-horns) operated in feudal style by Brian Keith.

The Ipcress File has been termed one of the most incredible spy stories ever filmed. In addition to Michael Caine, the film also stars Nigel Green and Sue Lloyd. The title is derived from 'the most dangerous document in Europe', and the spies and counter spies, mingle with scientists and petty crooks, in the fight for the Ipcress file.

GIELGUD ON TV

Sir John Gielgud's production of Chekhov's play Ivanov is to be telecast May 30 in color, starring Gielgud and Claire Bloom.

Distinguished Young Actor Prepares For Biggest Role

LONDON (CP)—Alan Bates is preparing for the biggest role of his career, Shakespeare's Richard III at Stratford, Ont., with the serious, thoughtful absorption in the character that has made him one of the most distinguished young actors in Britain.

Without visualizing in advance how he will play the role—he says he probably won't know that until he steps on stage—he is soaking himself in everything that has been written about Richard. Portrayed by Shakespeare as a black-dyed hunchback villain, the 15th-century usurper king is regarded by many as the most maligned man in English history.

"Everything has some relevance to the part, even the joke things about him," said Bates over steak-and-kidney pudding in a posh West End restaurant.

"I went down to the National Portrait Gallery to look at his picture. The face is like granite, but it's not an evil face."

"Richard is evil from our modern viewpoint, but in the context of his own times he was probably quite good."

"This is the most difficult thing, to think oneself back into those times. The head-chopping that went on and all that raging ambition. I mean, one knows those things still exist in the world, but it's hard to associate with English society."

FIRST VISIT TO CANADA

Bates flies to Canada at the end of March for production discussions at Stratford, and may make a fleeting trip to Hollywood before starting rehearsals April 9. During the 1967 centennial season he will also play the part of Frank Ford, the deceived husband in The Merry Wives of Windsor.

It will be his first visit to Canada, although he knows several members of the Stratford company and admires their work.

For this shy, rather introspective actor whose remarkable career has run parallel to the great English theatrical renaissance started by John Osborne in the 1950s, the Canadian offer could not have come at a better time.

"I'd been thinking for five or six months that I needed a big classic role, partly for the discipline, partly to extend myself, to see if I could do it now."

Elderest of three sons of a Derbyshire musician who wanted him to become a concert pianist, Alan Bates showed his quality early, as a student at the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art. He turned in such a mature interpretation of Richard II at the college's annual public performance that he was immediately offered a job in professional repertory.

At 33, his career has been studded with critical successes and has covered an astonishing range—but mostly outside the great classic plays.

The critics first marked him as a rising star in 1956 in Look Back in Anger, the Osborne play which launched a whole new wave of dramatic talent on the English stage.

Bates went on to score a triple triumph in Harold Pinter's The Caretaker, another dramatic beacon of the 1950s, winning acclaim for his stage performances in London and New York and an award for the movie version.

His most demanding and satisfying role until the Stratford opportunity appeared was that of Edmund Tyrone, prototype of the young Eugene O'Neill, in the American playwright's drama Long Day's Journey Into Night.

A succession of varied parts in movies followed, including Whistle Down the Wind, A Kind of Loving, Nothing but the Best and the exuberant Georgy Girl with Lynn Redgrave.

He has just completed two more films, MGM's version of the Thomas Hardy rural epic Far From the Madding Crowd and King of Hearts, his first French-speaking role.

In a way this rich versatility has tended to blur his public impact as a "name."

"He has given distinguished performances in so many different parts that the public hasn't yet got a clear image of Alan Bates," said a movie industry associate.

Bates gives the impression, rare among actors, that this doesn't particularly bother him.

"Acting is a very personal thing," he says, and the brown eyes are veiled with the reticence that meets questions about his work. He has none of the extrovert gleam many actors turn on for interviews, but his low-keyed, inward - directed personality comes across strongly—original and sincere.

He cut an unusual figure in the suave surroundings of the Piccadilly restaurant. The shaggy hair and beard, grown for his role as a 19th-century sheep farmer in Far From the Madding Crowd, combined with the remote eyes to give the air of some woodland prophet, an impression abruptly jolted by a smoothly tailored grey flannel suit and fashionable high - collared striped shirt.

STARTED IN CANADA

Percy Faith joined the Canadian Radio Broadcasting Commission—now the CBC—in 1933 as a music arranger and pianist.

Book Corner

Like good whisky, poet Irving Layton gets better as he grows older.

His 19th book since 1946, Periods of the Moon (McClelland and Stewart), deals with three new themes—the beast in man, aging, and Europe—and he brings them off effectively.

As usual, there is an introduction in prose. This is useful because every preface helps orient the reader who hasn't encountered Layton before, as long as he doesn't take Layton the polemicist more seriously than Layton the poet.

Layton's key words in discussing poetry are "authentic," "musical" and "emotion." These represent the positive side of his approach.

He has rather more to say about what he dislikes: "Sterile fanatics . . . all the patronizing, arrogant twaddle I've had to endure . . . assorted whines, reportage or metaphysics in shredded prose."

As a bard in the old tradition, Layton makes up word songs about people, places, things and ideas which, on paper, often look like the "shredded prose" he hates.

But when he reads them himself—he now gives many readings over the CBC and in coffee houses—they take on a special magic. This is something he has in common with Ezra Pound and T. S. Eliot.

Layton has always been known as a "sex poet" in that he believes in celebrating the human body. In the poem, Mahogany Red, and others he tackles the problem of aging in sex and marriage at just the point where most writers think one rules out the other.

He has always been a "physical poet" as well, starkly confronting brutality. Layton has been feuding with a fellow Montrealer over attitudes toward post-Nazi Germany, and in The Coming of The Messiah he is reminded in an "improved vision" of just how brutal man can be.

"Northrop F. ve, the eminent critic who is principal of Victoria College at the University of Toronto, has called Layton "a true poet" because his vision is of "a marriage of heaven and hell." Just now, hell seems more often to be gaining the upper hand.

But there are exceptions, as shown in the European poems in Periods of the Moon. Each is focused on a particular scene—in France, Germany or Greece—and the poems vary as the scenes vary.

Layton's poetry, it is evident, is getting broader and better and is probably acquiring the wider audience it deserves.

The Canadian Pulp and Paper Association has brought out a 33-page book by the late G. Herbert Lash, A Walk in the Forest, which deals in rather lyrical prose with the birds, insects, animals, trees and waters of the woods. Each of the seven chapters is illustrated in color or black and white. A limited number of copies are available free from the association's headquarters.

Alan Gowans, professor and chairman of the division of art and art history at the University of Victoria, has produced a much-enlarged and altered second edition of his 1958 work, Looking at Architecture in Canada.

Entitled Building Canada: An Architectural History of Canadian Life (Oxford University Press), it has 246 half-tones, the illustrations taking up more than half the book.

Gowans writes in the preface that he has tried "to show how Canadian buildings have been shaped by a historical experience that is peculiar to Canada, so that, properly understood, Canadian architecture is not some dull and colonial reflection of glories elsewhere but a tangible record of the growth of a nation, important in its own right."

Jamaica Instals Solar Transmitter

KINGSTON, Jamaica (Reuters) — A solar-powered transmitter, claimed to be the first put into commercial use, has been installed in Jamaica for broadcasting television programs.

The transmitter is operated by batteries kept charged by solar cells which collect energy from the sun.

By installing such a transmitter and putting it into use, Jamaica is making an experiment which may lead to greater use of television in countries where lack of electricity hampers development of the service.

Jamaica was chosen for the experiment because the island was considered by the British firm of T.I.E. (Communications) Ltd. which developed the solar-powered transmitter, to offer ideal conditions for it—plenty of sunlight, insufficient electricity and inadequate roads in the area where the transmitter is situated.

If it works here, the solar-powered transmitter can be used in other countries where similar conditions prevail.

Canadian To Sell TV Antenna System

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Entrepreneur-sportsman Jack Kent Cooke says he plans to sell 21 of his community antenna television systems in 14 states.

Cooke said Friday that the systems for sale are those serving smaller cities and that his firm — American Cablevision — will concentrate on metropolitan markets.

Discussing the sale, the Canadian-born Cooke said:

"I expect they'll go for about $35,000,000."

The former Canadian sports and business figure, born in Hamilton and brought up in Toronto, said he anticipates no problems in selling the smaller system. He did not disclose which systems are up for sale.

Cooke, 54, became an American citizen in 1962.

FM and . . . Scene

By Charles Patrick

Nature's neutrality will, we hope, surge into high gear to bring an ideal spring scene into blossom. After a winter notable for the lack of snow scenes, it must be admitted it was a springy winter. Lets hope spring doesn't spring negative surprises in weather patterns as the scene shift sets in.

The community theatre scene was a busy one in March. But, April's theatre activity so far seems primarily confined to rehearsal time bookings. Checking with city theatre manager GORDON SMITH revealed numerous bookings of the building, but only four events seem specifically to be on the rise for public exposure. April 2 at 2:30 p.m. the PACIFIC LUTHERAN UNIVERSITY CONCERT BAND will perform with a variety of selections of show tunes, marches, classics and novelty numbers, as well as recent works by contemporary composers. The WHITE HEATHER concert company of international reputation are booked for April 25 and will present stars of the Scottish scene who are also booked for Vancouver's QE. Thanks to the Associated Commercial Travellers, Kelowna's audience enjoyment of this group will be possible.

A history of Canada In Song by elementary school students of this district is a promising entertainment slated for April 29. MUSIC CANADIANA is its performance title, and, with Garfield McKinley's hand being in this development it will be interesting to hear the results on stage. The fourth theatre item, the JANTZ BROTHERS QUARTET is booked for April 5. I mention it last, but not least. However, so far this writer has little knowledge of the offering. Undoubtedly this will be spelled out prior the concert date.

The Kelowna Little Theatre apparently have standing bookings from April 7 to 14 at the community theatre and two more on April 19 and 20. To date, I can only presume the first dates are a run of rehearsals for the spring three acter, with the latter two dates for the play itself. But this awaits clarification. Stand by for the facts!

FM SCENE SHIFTS

Two interesting developments have occurred recently in the CJOV-FM program pattern. The Saturday Night and Sunday Morning scene is worth mentioning. Tomorrow evening for the third time round separate FM program hours provide listeners with a total of six exclusive quality hours of variable entertainment from 6 p.m. to midnight. Formerly there were just three separate hours starting at 6 with Music For Dining, Symphony Hall then Big Band Beat. The latter program is no more. The two former programs prevail. But, following the 8 p.m. News you will enjoy the new program run, FM Saturday Night. Presided over by a young man with a flare for careful control of his duties, listeners will find host DAVID ALLEN doing his best to make their total enjoyment of FM a dependable experience. David guides the program tour from 6 to the witching hour. FM Saturday night is on the standard popular level with sophisticated moods of music, spiced with bright selections that please and even includes a smattering of comedy spice throughout the program period.

Sunday morning listeners will enjoy more smooth standards between 9 and 11 when the new replacement for Classics For A Sunday, formerly heard at that time, takes over starting April 2. The new program SUNDAY MORNING MOODS will it is felt have wide appeal to FM fans. Classics For Sunday will not be dropped. It can still be enjoyed, but at the new and earlier time of from 7 to 9 a.m.

Classics For Monday at 8:10 will feature, this Monday, highlights from the opera LA TRAVIATA. On the lighter side on the following Wednesday the operetta by Gilbert and Sullivan considered to be one of their most popular will be heard. Its the once monthly G & S treat for those who enjoy this traditional fare. The well beloved HMCS PINAFORE will be performed on the FM sound stage replacing Symphony Hall at 9 p.m.

Scratch Name Of Rock Hudson From Any List Of Politicians

NEW YORK (AP) — Scratch the name of Rock Hudson from any list of Hollywood box office kings who may aspire to enter the political arena.

Although he admits to some government experience — he once was a postman for three months — the six-foot-four film star says it left him without any burning desire to become U.S. postmaster-general.

"Politics bores me, and so does talking about it," he said, smiling. "I'm not interested in becoming a political candidate at any level."

What is Rock's big goal then, if not public service?

"I want to be a damn good actor," he said, "and I don't think I'm a damn good actor yet."

Whatever his ultimate professional ranking may be, as a performer Hudson has been one of the most successful in the history of the film industry.

Since 1948, he has been in 52 pictures, an average of more than 2½ each year. In 1966 he turned out three — Blindfold, Seconds and Tobruk. Recently he signed to star in Ice Station Zebra, a spy adventure yarn set in the frozen reaches of the far north.

Despite his surprising output, and it includes a number of clinkers as well as box office smashes, Rock doesn't think of himself as a particularly hard worker.

LIKES WORK

"I like to work hard," he remarked, "and I do work very hard if I have faith in a picture. "But if I haven't, I can't muster the energy."

As the years go by Rock is more at ease in the role of film star, a part he found difficult to play at first because of an almost overwhelming feeling of shyness which has bothered him since he was a big awkward kid back in his native town, Winnetka, Ill.

"I used to be terribly, painfully shy — so shy that I wouldn't talk," he recalled. "Now I'm no longer painfully shy, but I'm still shy."

Asked what was the biggest problem stardom had brought him, he replied:

"Well, there is a certain boredom involved in the lack of anonymity, but this same lack of anonymity also can be of some help, particularly when you need plane reservations in a hurry."
